WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Eleanore H. Gould

This Year Book is dedicated to you in loving appreciation for all you have done to help make better business men and women.

WADE L. GRINDLE
Principal

High School Faculty

BERTRAM ALLEN ALBRO

"Too few appreciate his wit."

Born in Portsmouth, R. I. He attended Boston University and now teaches Latin, being the head of the Latin department. He is married and lives on Mt. Vernon Street, Winchester. Most of us know his favorite expression "Now let's hear your version."

FRANCES GAGE ALLISON

"Always do what you are afraid to do, even if it be Spanish."

Born in Woburn, Mass. She attended Tufts College, where she received an A. B. Degree and was enrolled in the Phi Beta Kappa. She teaches Spanish and Latin and her previous experience has been in Georgetown, North Andover, and Malden. She is living in West Medford, Mass. and says her hobby is everything Spanish.

MARION WHITE BAILEY

"The play's the thing."

Born in Egypt, Mass. She attended the School of Expression for a three years diploma, a year of graduate work at the same place, later a year at both of the following places, Miss Miehaud's School and the Bread Loaf School of English. She teaches English, U. S. History, and Expression. Her previous experience was at North Easton, and Gloucester. She is living on Manchester Road. Her favorite pastime she thinks is golf.

HELEN BRONSON

"A soft answer turneth away wrath."

Born in Fall River, Mass. She attended Simmons and received post-graduate work at Harvard. She teaches shorthand and has had previous experience in Wellesley. She lives on Bacon Street, Winchester, and she prefers reading to many things.

ARTHUR E. BUTTERS

"Algebra and golf at last mastered."

Born in Old Town, Maine. He attended the University of Maine and received graduate work at Harvard. He teaches Mathematics and his previous experience has been in Old Town, Maine, and Louisville, Kentucky. He is married and lives on Park Avenue, Winchester. Another "golf bug."

MARGARETA M. CENTERVALL

"Hockey teams, or what have you?"

Born in Boston, Mass. She attended the Boston School of Education and received graduate work at Rhode Island College and Boston University. She teaches the girls' athletics and has had previous experience in Pawtucket, R. I., and in Central Falls. She likes swimming and driving her Ford with its "Da-da-da-da" horn.

LAWRENCE B. CHAMBERS

"The terror of the Lab-fakir."

Born in Canada and received his S. B. at Harvard. His home is in Cleveland, Ohio., but he is living in Boston. He teaches physics, chemistry, etc. Mr. Chambers has made a success as a new teacher.

MARJORIE E. DARLING

"The pen is the tongue of the mind."

Born in South Easton, Mass. She attended the Salem Normal School and has had previous experience in Quincy and Plymouth. She is living at South Easton. She teaches Arithmetic and Typewriting. Her hobbies are music, tennis and golf. Quite a combination we think.

LAWRENCE EAGER

"His words strike deeper than a sword."

Born in Boston, Mass. He received his A. B. at Dartmouth and took up graduate work at Harvard. He teaches College English and has had previous experience as an English instructor in University of Kansas. We could fill this page telling you about his merits. Oh, we must forget to tell you he delights in "first nighting."

LOIS P. GIBSON

"Our first librarian."

Born in Cliftondale, Mass. She attended Simmons College. She is the school librarian and has had experience in Adams, Mass. She is living in Rangeley and her hobbies are hiking, photography and reading. At last we have found one who can keep the library quiet.

ELEANOR P. GOULD

"I am in love with this green earth."

Born in Salem, Mass. She attended college and post-graduate courses at Mass. College of Commerce, Harvard and Boston University. She teaches geography, typewriting, office practice, etc., and has had previous experience in Cohasset and Boston, Mass. She lives in Auburndale, that is when she's not traveling all over God's kingdom.

SAMUEL M. GRAVES

"Difficulties are things that show what men are."

Born in New Haven, Conn. He received his B. A. at Bates College and is taking graduate work at Harvard. He teaches history and is faculty advisor of the year-book. He is married and lives in Somerville, Mass. After some difficulty his wife has procured passports for a tour through Europe this summer.

WADE LINCOLN GRINDLE

"The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

Born in Maine and received his A. B. at Bates College also in 1927 a Ed. M. Degree from Harvard. He is principal of Winchester High School and was principal in Dexter, Maine; Eastport, Maine; and Milton, Mass. He served overseas in the World War, and is a member of the 26th division (Y. D.).

RAYMOND V. HAYWARD

"Discoverer of Unity, Coherence, and Emphasis."

Born in Norwich, Conn. He received A. B. and M. A. degrees at Wesleyan University. He teaches English and Algebra and is coach of baseball. Mr. Hayward is married and lives at 396 Main Street, Winchester.

ROOSEVELT HUMPHREY

"Stands for all the good which his true Southern breeding implies."

Born in Somerville, Alabama. He received his A. B. at the University of Alabama, and his M. A. at Harvard. He teaches English and has had previous experience in Alabama and Haverhill, Mass. He is living in Cambridge and of course he enjoys reading ancient literature. Why not? He teaches it.

MARION E. KNIGHTLY

"Music—the staff of life."

Born in North Andover, Mass. She attended the Lowell Normal School and New York University. She teaches music and has had previous experience in Stoneham, Mass., and Providence, R. I. She is living on Prospect Street, Winchester. She confesses that hiking is her chief enjoyment.

ETHEL KNOWLTON

"The secret of success is constancy to purpose."

Born in Eddington, Maine. She received her A. B. at Colby College and A. M. at Middlebury French School and received graduate work at Boston University. She teaches French and Latin and has had experience at Hebron Academy and Colburn Classical Institute. She is now living in Boston and is still interested in the funny columns of the stock market page.

OTIS W. LEARY

"He's my mechanical man."

Born in Maine. He attended Tufts College and Boston University. He teaches printing and mechanical drawing. He is married and lives in West Medford. He'd make a good tennis coach for the school.

WENDELL D. MANSFIELD

"Teams by Mansfield."

Born in New Haven, Conn. He attended Springfield College and Boston University. He teaches physical education, is married and lives on Stone Avenue, Winchester. A second Knute Rockne in our estimation.

E. GLADYS NIVEN

"The students dietitian."

Born in Sangus, Mass. She attended Framingham Normal School and Columbia University. She teaches household arts and is in charge of lunch-counter. She has had previous experience in Westbrook, Maine, and Milton, Mass. She is living on Bellevue Road, Lynn. We must eat—of course.

EVA M. PALMER

"A thorough and conscientious teacher and an able one at that."

Born in Southbridge, Mass. She attended Boston University and received her A. B. at the College of Liberal Arts. She is head of Mathematics and Dean of Girls. She lives on Dix Street and her hobby is Young People and the world in general. We couldn't do without Miss Palmer.

FLORENCE A. PARKER

"Nothing astonishes men so much as common sense and plain dealing."

Attended Smith College and is living on Dix Street, Winchester. She teaches English and has had previous experience in Springfield, Maine, and Shelbourne Falls, Mass. What would the seniors do without Miss Parker to keep them on the straight and narrow path.

MARY V. PERHAM

"What strong mysterious links enchain the French language."

Born in Tyngsboro, Mass. She attended Radcliffe and lives on Church Street, Winchester. She received graduate work at the University of Paris, University of Grenoble, Harvard, and Boston University. She is head of the French department and has had previous experience in Great Barrington, Mass., Carrington, Conn., and New Britain, Conn.

ELLA M. STACY

"The years teach much that the days never know."

Born in Bridgewater, Maine. She attended Richer Classical Institute and received her A. B. at Colby College. She teaches history and has had previous experience in Peabody, Mass. and was at one time Dean of Girls at Coborn Classical Institute. She is married and lives in Cambridge. And we have still another "golf bug."

DOROTHY M. SHURTLEFF

"My heart is with my art."

Born in W. Roxbury, Mass. She attended Mass. School of Art and has had previous experience as art supervisor in the Framingham and Waltham public schools. She is living in W. Roxbury and teaches art here. Miss Shurtleff can be satisfied only with the wide open spaces and a little "pup" tent.

ABERJONA STAFF

Thrift Club; A. A.
Hobby: Typewriting.

ALICE CAROLINE FITTS
"AL"

"A horse! A horse! my kingdom for a horse."

Alice, we understand, is a lover of horses, dogs, and music. She is an excellent rider, and is unexcelled in recalling the names of musical compositions.

Born in Jamaica Plain, December 20, 1912.
Wadleigh School.
Intends to go to Oberlin College.
Cum Laude.
Class Team: Hockey.
Activities: A. A.; Chorus; Glee Club; Dramatic Society; Recorder Staff.
Hobby: "Englishmen."

ALICE FRIEND

"A true friend is ever a friend."

Her last name describes her well—so friendly is her personality. Dramatics and athletics appeal to her, but in mathematics she eclipses us all.

Born in Minneapolis, Minn., September 6, 1913.
Wadleigh School.
Intends to go to Wellesley next year.

GORDON GLOVER

"If silence is golden then this man is 24 karat."

A little bird has whispered to us that some day Gordon will become a great chemist and we have a feeling that some day his word will be heeded as that of an authority.

Born in Groton, Vt., July 5, 1912.

Intends to go to Mass. Institute of Technology.

Activities: A. A.; Thrift Club.

Hobby: Automotive Engineering.

BARTLETT EDGECOMB GODFREY

"BART"

"You'll find the world willing to step aside for a fellow who knows where he is going."

We sure admire you as our President and captain of football, and though you scorn glory we say we never hope to meet better. Will you ever lose that blush Bart?

Born in Everett, October 12, 1912.

Wadleigh School.

Intends to go to Exeter next year.

Senior Class President.

Vice-President '27, '29.

Varsity Team: Football '28; Captain '29.

ELSIE LINEA JOSEPHSON

"She has never had a fight,
And has never joined a riot;
You may hunt the wide world o'er,
And you'll not find one so quiet.
Flaming cheeks belong to her
That quiet little lass
But she need never be ashamed
All life's tests she'll pass."

Activities: Business Manager of Year Book; Class Play; A. A.; Thrift Club.

Hobby: Reading and Walking.

DORIS VICTORIA MILLS

"DOT"

"Her voice was ever so soft."

One of the many fine things we can say about "Dot" is that she's wonderfully sympathetic. However most of her activities are extra-mural; and we have often wondered why she has not entered more into school affairs for she has the makings of a good leader.

Born in Somerville, Mass., June 27, 1910.

Wadleigh School.

Plans to be a Typist next year.

Activities: A. A. Member; Thrift Club.

Hobby: Dancing and Elocutionist.

If you can't eat the rest of that doughnut, give it to Martha Tibbetts or to Henry Newman.

Most Likely to Succeed

Big things are expected of Earl Anderson and Helen Baumann.

Best Looking

Gordon Bennett and Priscilla Bodman received the most votes.

Cutest Girl

Helen Bidwell is the cutest girl. Joseph Murphy, Francis Dolan and Vazken Baghdoyan were among the contestants, each receiving one vote.

Best Actor

Marie Dresser and Fred Sanborn won by large majorities.

Most Wide Awake

We've never been able to catch Billy Allen or Mary Armstrong napping around school. So much couldn't be said for some of the rest of us.

Hottest Temper

Although well liked by all, Susan Brown and Utley Smith have been chosen for this title.

Happiest

Jim Haley and Marion Hatch are the most happy-go-lucky.

Biggest Bluffer

Although there are many in the class entitled to this honor, Billy Guild and George Philbrick won.

Best Dancer

Earl Waters and Martha Tibbetts take the prize.

Quietest

Marion Le Roy and Gordon Glover won. The variety of votes cast leads us to believe that we have a very quiet class, to which the teachers will agree.

Laziest

We all have our lazy moments but "Barb" Goodwin and "Bob" Davis seem to have them the most often.

Most Ambitious

Marjorie Dolloff and Billy Higgins are the most ambitious. John Ghirardini voted for himself. Glad to hear it, John.

Sweetest Girl

Mary Armstrong and Priscilla Bodman received the same number of votes. Draw your own conclusions.

Best Dressed

Velma is the best dressed girl. "Russ" is frequently seen in Raymond's, selecting a new outfit.

Biggest Talker

Marjorie Dolloff manages to out-talk all of us. Billy Allen wins for the boys.

Slowest

Marion Le Roy and "Bob" Davis may be slow but they get there just the same.

Most Dependable

Leave it to Marjorie Hayden or to Earl Anderson and it will be done.

Biggest Flirt

There was a close race between Barbara Locke and "Dot" Wigglesworth but "Barb" won by one vote. "Bill" Miller was chosen from among the boys.

Most Enthusiastic

Always willing to boost a new project are Mary Armstrong and Billy Allen.

Class Cut-Up

There's a treat in store when "Midge" is in a playful mood. Can you imagine "Jim" Haley not starting something?

Most Interesting

Martha and "Bus" engage the attention of the madding crowd.

Most Romantic

Helen Bidwell and "Bill" Miller expect to become engaged this summer—in work of some sort.

Favorite Teachers

The class claims Miss Bailey and Mr. Eager as the favorite teachers.

Favorite Study

English received first place with Math and History tying for second place. One hard-working student voted for Study Periods.

Average Age

17 years, 7 months.

Average Weight

133 lbs. The total weight is 5 tons, 405 lbs.

Average Height

5 feet, 4 inches. The total height of the class is 422 feet. With the aid of a sturdy flag pole, we could furnish competition with Washington Monument.

Class History - 1930

THE year 1930 marks two great historical events—the tercentenary of the founding of Massachusetts and the graduation of the most illustrious class in all the annals of the Winchester High School. The former may be important to a greater number of people, but the latter is of far greater significance to us.

Five years passed after the settlement of Massachusetts Bay Colony before there was a high school—how we pity the younger generation of those days! Is it fortunate or unfortunate that Governor Winthrop cannot come back to see the changes since his time? It might prove too great a shock to him, after living in an age when children were never heard and not always seen. How glad we are to be living now, and what a good time we did have in that unforgettable Freshman year!

We shone both in dramatics and athletics. Midge Brown, the only Freshman in the play, “A Substitute for Santa Claus,” won much applause in the part of “New Year.” Puggy Mercer, Helen Bidwell, and Earl Waters earned their letters in tennis and Johnny Murphy earned his in baseball—a good record for the first year.

Our class officers were Billy Allen, President; Bart Godfrey, Vice-President; Billy Higgins, Secretary; and Clyde Clark, Treasurer. For the first and only time a freshman took part in the graduation exercises; Billy Allen received one of the flags—a class gift that year.

The following year was a quiet one. Miss Weeks, our Librarian left us and a few months later we welcomed Miss Gibson in her place. As Class officers we chose George de Coriolis, President; Mary Armstrong, Vice President; Harry Coe, Secretary; and Priscilla Bodman, Treasurer.

We returned for our Junior year to find that several of our teachers had left—Miss Good, Miss Wheeler, Miss Richmond, and Mr. Cusick. They were succeeded by Miss Darling, Miss Centervall, Mr. Humphrey, and Mr. Graves.

We all enjoyed the Junior-Senior Class Play, “The Best People” and the Dramatic Society play, “The Rear Car”; much credit is due to the members of our class who took part in them. For the first time we staged our own Prom and we are certainly proud of its success.

We elected for our class officers this year Muriel Carr, President; Bart Godfrey, Vice-President; Alice Friend, Secretary; and Earl Waters, Treasurer.

With such a background began our Senior year. We were exceedingly sorry to lose our popular chemistry teacher, Mr. Fuller, who left in January to take another position. This was not our only loss. The two-platoon system spelled the doom of our weekly “Recorder”. The Year Book, however, started in 1929, compensates this loss to some extent.

Our 1930 class officers are Bart Godfrey, President; Puggy Mercer, Vice-President; James Haley, Secretary; and Mary Armstrong, Treasurer. Again we have shone in Dramatics: Martha Tibbetts, President of the Dramatic Society deserves special praise for her fine work. In the two plays which this society presented in the Fall—namely, “The Last of the Lowries” and

“The Voice of the Snake”—Marie Dresser, Earl Waters, and Robert Jackson made a fine showing. The climax of our dramatic achievements was the Junior-Senior Class Play, “The Merchant Gentleman,” one of Moliere’s comedies. The cast included Frederick Sanborn, the “gentleman” himself; Marie Dresser, his wife; Priscilla Bodman, their daughter; Muriel Carr, the jolly maid; Earl Waters, the “Turk”; Russell Davis; Lawrence Keepers; Robert Davis; Andy Skilling; Bill Miller; Vazken Baghdoyan; Henry McCormack; and John Murphy. Miss Bailey directed these plays and their success is due to her excellent coaching.

Just as outstanding as our actors and actresses are our athletes. We congratulate Puggy Mercer and Billy Allen for winning the Wheeler and Mansfield Cups. Others who have made an enviable record are Susie Cutter, Muriel Carr, Helen Bidwell, Mary Armstrong, Midge Brown, Red Locke, Bart Godfrey, Johnny Murphy, Henry McCormack, Francis Dolan, Clyde Clark, Harold Donovan, Louis Capone, Harold McCue, Earl Waters, and Bus McNeil.

In May we held our Senior Prom. The Committee under Gordon Bennett quite transformed the Assembly Hall by a huge awning in the class colors, red and black, hung at the stage and smaller ones at each of the doors. Van Cunningham’s orchestra was fine.

The last play of the year was presented by the Dramatic Society. Two of our class had the leading roles—Martha Tibbetts and George Philbrick. The play was “Evening Dress” and was given twice—once for the students with a dance following it, and once for the closing meeting of the Parent-Teachers’ Association.

Tonight, we gather for our last social time together, an evening given over entirely to fun, for we do not come to the actual parting until Tuesday, when we shall join that great throng who have passed through the doors of Winchester High School into life, there to write our history as Pilgrims of the present, as great as that history of the past.

Prophecy

FROM MACBETH

(With apologies to Shakespeare)

First Witch:—

Twice the brazen gong hath boomed.

Second Witch:—

Twice and once the time-clock whirred.

Third Witch:—

Prophets cry, 'tis time, 'tis time—

First Witch:—

Round about the cauldron go
In our great ambitions throw:
Jobs that under cold-stare
Days and nights give night-mare
Inky fingers, toiling got,
Boil thou first i' the charmed-pot.

All:—

Double, double, toil and trouble,
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.

Second Witch:—

Handle of a garden rake,
In the cauldron boil and bake.
Ray of star and bit of ore
Both Heavenly and earthly lore,
Algebra's plus and minus signs,
Geometry's straight and curv'd lines,
For a charm of powerful trouble
Like a school-broth, boil and bubble.

All:—

Double, double toil and trouble
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.

Third Witch:—

Thread of cotton, silk on spool,
Needle for dressmaker's tool;
Scoop of flour, pinch of salt,
That the cook may find no fault,
Color of a changing map,
Tale of war or strange mishap,
Shudders dread at Hamlet's Ghost,

Helen's loss and Odysseus' boast;
Glass of test tube, boiling hot,
Cooling agent not a jot,
Acid, alkali, and what not!
Add there to a French translation
For our class-night's last libation.

All:—

Double, double toil and trouble,
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.

Second Witch:—

Cool it with an athlete's blood,
Then the charm is firm and good.

Hecate:—

O, well done, I commend your pains;
And every one shall share in the gains.
And now about the cauldron sing,
Like elves and fairies in a ring,
Enchanting all that you put in.

SCHOOL SONG

Come young! Come old!
With voices brave and bold
And sing for dear old Winchester High
Praises sing; let them ring
Exultant to the very sky.
There are hues which others choose
But ours! the red and the black,
We will raise and wave above,
For they stand for all we love
In dear old Winchester High.

The sacred flame, with Hope its name
And standards: Loyalty and Right,
Is given to you, so now be true
Unto the red and black.
'Twill blaze the way, so come let's play,
And finish out Life's game aright.
Hold it high and let it flame,
Symbolic of the faith and name
Of dear old Winchester High.

Second Witch:—

By the pricking of my thumbs,
Something thrilling this way comes.
Open, locks,
Whoever knocks!

We draw these slips from the charmed pot;
And show what shall become your lot:
We see:—

Frederick Abbott traveling in Mexico.

Francis Dolan and Harold Donovan putting a new book on the market, entitled "What Makes Fallen Arches Fall?"

Dorothy Wigglesworth, winning many contests in typewriting; practicing to compete in the championship contest.

Josephine Harrigan, famous as an opera singer.

John Lutes, promoted from messenger to head office boy at the Western Union.

Harold McCue on a non-stop flight from Winchester to Africa.

Susan Brown, swinging a mean hammer as Town Moderator.

Donald Roberts, inventing a plan for education that does not require any homework.

Martha Tibbetts, bringing the knights to Bartlett's Night Club.

Earl Anderson, the famous prophet, doing service at William Edward's three ring Circus, feeding the Elephants. Edward Quill, the fat man in the Circus.

Mary Armstrong, lifting locomotives for transportation on Trans-Atlantic Liners.

Viola Rennert, the proud and happy owner of Winchester's only 10 and 15 cent store.

Herbert Rowe, giving tennis lessons.

Carolyn Mercer, the owner of a kennel, in which she specializes in her thoroughbred "Pug Dogs." The kennels are in the Western part of Massachusetts.

Gordon Glover, working at the glove counter in John Ghirardini's new store for men.

Elizabeth Berry and Alice Fitts, giving a vocational course to the disabled men at Deer Island.

Ethel Thompson as town bookkeeper, she is still trying to find the shortage of six cents on her books.

"Jim" Haley and "Bus" McNeil, forcing law and order up in Billerica; "Bus", the town's truant officer; and "Jim", the constable.

Mary Shea, the owner of the New England Laundry Company.

Florence Coe, a Secret Service Agent for Detective Snoop.

Bill Higgins, a soda jerker at his own drugstore at North Burlap.

Miriam Prue and Helen Reardon, establishing a dancing school. Their pupils learn readily under their experienced teachers.

George Morgan, heading a drive for more substantial burlap in the Morgan Memorial Bags.

Dorothy Roberts, designing radio panels for the Static Radio Company.

Priscilla Bodman, Dean of Girls at the University of California.

William Cullen, being hailed as the nation's new multigraph inventor.

Mary Cutter, draining the Aberjona for lost hockey balls.

Marjorie Dolloff, an orator at the Massachusetts Institute for the Deaf and Dumb.

Fred Sanborn, ill with the Mumps, from attempting to blow high C on his organ.

Jean Livingstone, busy punching holes for the American Cheese Company.

"Joe" Murphy, in every kind of weather, selling peanuts outside the Public Library.

William and Richard O'Connell, publishing a history book complete with maps and the latest College Board Questions. The two authors present these books to all the students of American History now in the Winchester High School.

Marion LeRoy and Hazel Nagle, contending in the World Wide talking Championship.

Gordon Bennett, giving a P. G. Course in Bug Culture.

Mary Murphy, making her living by playing masculine rolls in Hollywood.

Vazken Baghdoyan, the most illustrious designer of his age.

Helen Bidwell, winning her third consecutive tennis championship of the world.

Hollywood's John Gilbert, surpassed by Russell Davis, the great silver screen lover.

Frances Duncan, discovering a new method for making cocoa. Her last method filled the Winchester Hospital.

In a presidential campaign, President William Allen re-elected. He is urging a drive for a National Athletic Association.

Barbara Goodwin and Barbara Guild, lecturing at various schools on "Choosing a Career."

"Bob" Jackson, employed at Francis O'Neil's "New Egg Process Donut Company" which has merged with a macaroni company. "Bob" is stuffing the macaroni with the holes of doughnuts, where he used to throw them away.

Wallace Fay, teaching dancing to those bashful youths who have difficulty in managing their feet.

Mary Tofuri, a typist at the Winchester Police Station.

Doris Mills and Amelia Morrill working in a rodeo, after their failure to find gold in California.

Velma Kelley, as a comic artist, inventing a new chin for Andy Gump.

Francis Hooper, touring the country, giving lectures on "The Art of Public Speaking."

Eleanor Mansfield, demonstrating the perfect foot, and guaranteeing Anna Lee Pinkham's Corn Plasters to be satisfactory, or your money back.

"Bart" Godfrey, a golf professional, shown as he is giving an exhibition at the Winchester Country Club.

Marion Hatch filling a very prominent position as designer of airplanes in the Ford factory. Elsie Josephson as her secretary.

Louis Capone, coach at the new Winchester High School, trying to teach the team that good old drop kick.

Dorothy MacDonald, taking up Spanish Dancing.

Ethel Feinberg, leader of the daughters of the "I Won't Get Up."

Willard Chandler's Wrecking Company, merging with the Gray and Orange Taxi Company, owned by Wellington Stevens.

Eileen Eason, startling Hollywood with her new steps.

Doris Gardner, crocheting suspenders for the old men's home.

EARL ANDERSON.

The Last Will and Testament of the Class of Nineteen Hundred Thirty

WE, being of sound mind, (for the most part) do hereby bequeath to the would-be inhabitants, room twenty-four, the scene of our school-day activities. We bequeath, with this, the dents that President Godfrey has made in the desk in the vain effort to still the hilarious throng that bulged its antiquated walls during a class meeting. If we could, we would bequeath the wherewithal to install upon its venerated platform an anvil upon which the future presidents could use a hammer to dim the din caused by the myriad voices of untamed seniors.

As for individuals——

Earl Waters leaves to Ada Johnson his ability and inspiration to cheer the “bleacher-warmers” to “On Winchester.” So now instead of having to follow in synchronism, she may do the leading herself.

Henry Newman leaves his numerous whys and wherefores to that person who may wish to accept them. We are glad Henry is leaving them behind anyway.

William Miller leaves his gentle sunny disposition to William Brown. May he succeed in winning the many hearts Mr. Miller did.

Marie Dresser, after careful consideration, presents to Olive Boutillier her dramatic ability.

Carolyn Mercer leaves to Carolyn Nichols, her athletic prowess and alarming modesty. May she enjoy speaking before the assembled congregation as Miss Mercer has.

James Haley has consented to bequeath his genial manner and “happy-go-lucky” facial expression to Richard Riley.

Priscilla Bodman, having no desire to allow the piano to get out of tune from disuse, does hereby bequeath the “ivories” to a future Paderewski or Paderewskina so that it may get out of tune from misuse. Is Caroline Abbott in line?

Gordon Bennett after a dash of thought “don’ cha know” has decided to leave his ability as a contortionist to the lucky Junior who is limber enough to claim it. May he be as entertaining as Gordon has.

Clifton McNeil leaves his popularity and quiet manner of “swinging the crowd” to the school in general.

Henry McCormack leaves his ability to manipulate his pedal extremities to the coming Clarence DeMar.

The big three, namely, Helen Bidwell, Mary Cutter, and Carolyn Mercer bequeath their uncanny ability to wield a racquet to the future followers of Helen Wills.

William Allen leaves to those who remain, the ability to arouse enthusiasm in an unresponsive assembly.

Wallace Fay leaves his punctuality and attention to detail to Paul Shiverick who doesn't like detail at all.

Andrew Skilling and Eugene Reddy combine to give away the largest quantity of friendliness the High School has seen for some time.

George Philbriek leaves for the future definition manufacturers a manifestation of ostentatious exuberance of verbosity regarding phenomena in his attempts to elucidate on such thrasonical syllogisms as obscure hypotheses relating to simple compounds as tetramethyldiaminobenzophenone. May we caution him against polysyllabic profundity.

Presentation of Class Gift

VERY early in the history of the Winchester High School, graduating classes felt that it would be a pleasure to present some gift to the school when the time for leaving came. At this season, students found that the school, which before they had taken for granted, had some how become very important to them. Now, moved by the same feeling, we desire to leave behind us something which in years to come will identify us as former students.

This year, history has forced itself upon our attention through the tercentenary activities which are going on throughout the state. Three hundred years seems a long time to us. When we review the changes brought about in that time, we begin to wonder what our present life will seem like three hundred years hence.

Because of this important anniversary we have tried to make our gift this year something that would link us with the past and also something which would show the trend of the present. The time stamp, which we have chosen, is a fitting example of the machine age in which we live. We hope it may prove to be useful.

Most of us, at one time or another, have objected to spending so much time reading of past events, but at the end of four years in high school, we have come to understand that the progress of the present is the product of the past.

In the picture of Governor Winthrop and in a set of books, biography, history, and fiction, dealing with the colonization period of Massachusetts, we have tried to bring ourselves and you into touch with the past. We hope these will give pleasure and inspiration to many who follow us.

Our gifts are an earnest effort on our part to show our interest and appreciation for the school which, we now realize, has done so much for us.

BARTLETT GODFREY

Prison Reform

*I*N this day and age, and especially as we look forward to our future careers, it is fitting that we consider in all seriousness the pertinent, question of prison reform. In presenting this topic for your consideration, may I pass over those very recent disasters which you have doubtless noted and passed judgment upon and proceed rather to a discussion of the people who are either voluntary or involuntary inmates of these public institutions. For it seems necessary that a clear understanding of these unfortunates must precede any practical reform measures.

Let us limit ourselves in the discussion to conditions as they exist in one of these prisons of which I have been an interested observer for some time. I think this institution to be typical of them all.

Much has already been said and printed about the crowded conditions in prisons throughout the country. The same prevails in an aggravated form in the one I have in mind. In too many cases, the inmates have been obliged to double-up because of congested quarters. In more than one instance, a comparative beginner has been forced to share his space with a hardened old-timer. You can imagine the effect upon the poor beginner.

The officials of the prison from which I draw my illustrations are a carefully trained and well chosen group. They are surprisingly considerate at times and yet firm enough to administer discipline as the occasion demands. The chief warden is a splendid type of man. He is a master in his line, is considerate of the weak, sympathetic with the sufferers, and very generous in providing entertainments such as movies, special speakers or out-of-door activities to help while away the weary hours of confinement. His assistant is equally efficient in handling the more trying but less unruly inmates. The longterm prisoners have learned to respect and honor this assistant warden for efficient yet genial methods of government and service.

Naturally, every one of these prisoners is under lock and key except for a few all-too-short hours when he is afforded a varying degree of freedom, depending somewhat upon himself.

These inmates are of four distinct classes: first, those who might be styled cooperatives. They enjoy special privileges and responsibilities commensurate with their conduct records. Next to this group, but still of superior type, are the so-called trusties. These are hard workers, dependable, and resigned to the wisdom of making the most out of their terms of imprisonment. A third class consists of those who are comparatively unversed in prison life, who resent its restrictions, require constant supervision, break rules, start riots, and even attempt to escape, to their own detriment. Last of all come the solitaires for whom no one cares much. They have small part in prison activities either through inability, stubbornness or a misguided spirit of independence. Theirs is a hard life. They are open to the constant ridicule of the others who realize the value of their cooperative freedom from the narrow and limited groove which is the chosen lot of these solitaires.

Only under exceptional cases is shortening or commutation of sentence granted in this prison. The larger part of the inmates serve their full term.

Wealth, political influence, or religious sentiments are equally powerless to reduce the term of imprisonment by so much as a day. As a matter of fact, the reverse is often the rule—an unfortunate finding himself sentenced to an additional term of months, particularly those from the third group of my classification, the unruly ones.

I am now come to the actual matter of reform. I have but two measures to propose. The first is to remove at once and at any cost the danger and impossible conditions brought about by overcrowding. That is merely a matter of building to be considered by the governor of the prisons. The second measure I propose is to minimize the less desirable element from prisons by making it more difficult in the first place to gain entrance to the institutions. My contention is that it is too easy to get in, and once in, the deserving and more innocent inmates must suffer together.

So I appeal to you members of the class of 1930, each one of whom has been a trusted inmate in the institution I have been referring to. After four short years of internment in a crowded prison, you are in a position to give this question your consideration. And so I pledge you to preserve forever the memories of the past four years of pleasant and profitable confinement and unrelenting efforts in the future toward the well-being of those unfortunates whose terms are not as yet completed in the Winchester High school.

FREDERICK SANBORN.

Salutatory

FRIENDS, it affords me great pleasure to greet you in behalf of the class of 1930, and to extend to you a most hearty and sincere welcome to the Commencement Exercises of the Winchester High School.

It seems, at this time, a fitting occasion to speak of the history of our state, and the observance of the tercentenary of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1630. "Massachusetts! A state with a soul!" Her name summons before us a procession of benignant faces, their eyes filled with faith when first they gazed on her shores. She is the only state founded on an ideal, "built on a principle." She is the state where character came before cash and where men united for freedom, not for conquest. Massachusetts is worthy of our love. Her history deserves our reverent study. Her sons gave their hearts and their brains to humanity and laid their talents on the altar of their country.

John Winthrop, the first governor of Massachusetts, is recognized as one of the noblest figures in American history. He was a man of remarkable strength and beauty of character, grave and modest, intelligent, and intensely religious. Under his skillful guidance, Massachusetts was able to pursue the daring policy which characterized the first twenty years of her history, and which, in weaker hands, would almost surely have ended in disaster. And yet, if John Winthrop could see Massachusetts as it is to-day, he would, no doubt, be greatly surprised at the changes which have taken place in her government. He would be perplexed by the new ideas and the interpretations of governmental matters by the leading citizens of our state.

"After God had carried us safe to New England and we had builded our houses, provided necessities for our livelihood, reared convenient places for God's worship and settled the civil government, one of the next things we longed for and looked after was to advance learning and perpetuate it to posterity; dreading to leave an illiterate ministry to the churches when our present ministry shall be in the dust." This quotation comes from one of the early settlers of Massachusetts. The people were intensely interested in education and within five years after their settlement here, a public high school for boys was started, but the education of girls was not yet to be considered. It was Governor Winthrop's idea, as well as the idea of most others, that women did not need an education. Their place was in the home. I am inclined to believe that, if he could be present at our commencement exercises, this evening, he would think it strange to find so many girls among the graduates, and he would realize how far the ideas of education of women have advanced. Woman suffrage, as it exists in the present day, would greatly surprise the first governor of Massachusetts.

As I have previously stated, John Winthrop was intensely religious, but he did not understand the principles of religious liberty. "We have come to New England," he said, "in order to make a society after our own model; all who agree with us may come and join that society; those who disagree may go elsewhere; there is room enough on the American continent." We often wonder what he would think of the present-day religious liberty which we all enjoy.

As civilization has progressed, a multitude of changes has taken place in the government of the state of Massachusetts, as well as in every other state, but her proud heritage of victory over the obstacles of the flesh and the spirit, the heritage of truths tested, lifted, and established in power and beauty, is a richer and more faithful prophecy of the Massachusetts that is to be.

If, then, Governor Winthrop were to come back to-day, although he might at first be puzzled, even distressed by the changes which three hundred years have wrought, yet, when he became adjusted—found his balance—his amazement would give way to understanding and appreciation of the progress and prosperity which is ours and he would feel again, as he did so many years ago, when he said, “I like so well to be here, as I do not repent my coming, and if I were to come again I would not have altered my course, though I had foreseen all these afflictions.”

Valedictory

THREE hundred years ago a company of two thousand brave people came to this country seeking a place where they might worship as they pleased. We can have no comprehension of the hardships they endured because, in America today we do not know starvation as our forefathers did nor do we die of exposure to freezing weather. In spite of all their troubles, they never forgot their purpose in coming to a new land. They planned to provide a place where they could worship in a manner of their own, patterned after their own ideas of religion. So consistent were they that, when Roger Williams and Anne Hutchinson expressed their ideas, they were promptly expelled from the colony. The colonists had forgotten that they too had religious ideas that differed from those of their fellowmen in the mother-country.

If it had not been for straight-laced Governor Winthrop and his sturdy Puritan followers our country might never have been what it is today. It was they who helped to lay the strong foundations upon which our nation is built. It was because of people like them that America leads the world of nations today. They came unafraid of danger, ready to face anything. They brought up their children to be God-fearing men and women and instilled in them the desire to further the welfare of America. They met every test without flinching.

This spirit has prevailed down through the years. Representatives of practically every land on the face of the earth have come to America with the same desire for freedom, equality, and justice that the earlier comers had realized. America has not failed them. In contrast with the old countries, this is Paradise to them. Perhaps unconsciously they have taken unto themselves the high ideals of the first Americans and have remained true to them.

Every generation has had its problems to solve. We of the graduating class are of the new generation. There are problems for us to decide. We will not shirk. We will carry on the work our ancestors started three hundred years ago—this everlasting search for that which is best and right—the search for truth. Youth is always alert to the call of adventure. Life itself is the greatest adventure and we must dare to live as we think right.

Through higher education and science our country has made rapid strides in progress. Much of the drudgery of housework has been eliminated so that all members of the family have time for pleasure. The automobile, the theatre, the dance hall, the bridge party provide amusement for young and old. So, it has come about in a natural manner that the modern trend is one of eagerness to be doing something all the time. It is consequently an age of restlessness. But give the younger generation a little credit. It takes strong, healthy-minded young folk to keep up with the times. Remember it was not members of our own generation that gave us the automobile or other methods of speeding up life. We have taken what you put in our hands. Times have changed in outward appearance but underneath we have the same desires and emotions you had when you were young and as every youth before you has had. Through the racket and confusion, we follow the same quest for bigger and better things.

To be sure there have been times when youth has ceased to follow and has set the fashion. If you scan the custom of the past you find that fashions come and go. So down to the present time women have had first long hair then short. We girls had ours cut amid much protest, because of the style, we admit, but then we kept it short because it was so comfortable. Our mothers, having become reconciled, tried it too. They liked it. Consequently some of us have now a little pug while mother is still glorying in the shingle.

We young people may seem to be light-headed and irresponsible, yet we do stop now and then to consider the big things in life—our God—our Nation—and to take thought for those who will come after us.

“Who loves his country will not rest
Content with vow and pledge alone,
But flies her banner in his breast
And counts her destiny his own—
Not only when the bugle plays
Stands forth to give his life for her,
But on the field of common days
Is strong to live his life for her,
He is not satisfied to claim
As heritage her power and fame,
But, striving, earns the right to wear
The shining honor of her name.”

Tonight for the last time the Class of 1930 will be assembled. We are a little sad at the thought of breaking the pleasant relationships of school days, yet we are looking forward to the future and wondering a little about life. But we are not afraid. You, my friends, have given us our chance to fit ourselves for life and we are anxious to prove our worth. Up to this night we have walked the same road but now we come to the crossroads. The way is divided into many paths and we must make our choice. So we bid farewell to each other and to you. In closing, may I thank you for your kind attention, and express the appreciation and thanks of each and everyone of us to you for what you have done for us in the past and for the help we know you will give us as we start out on the Great Adventure.

MARION FRANCIS HATCH.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

History of the Sophomore Class

THE class of 1932 entered Winchester High School in the fall of nineteen twenty-eight and elected the following officers: President Daniel West, Vice-President Daniel Doan, Secretary Henry Anderson, and Treasurer William Hickey. Returning in 1929 they again cast votes in which the following were elected for the year:

President	Donald Emery
Vice-President	Norman Whiting
Secretary	Stanley Osgood
Treasurer	Anita Wilson

The class as Freshmen was fairly well represented in sports. As Sophomores the class was even better represented and some won letters, and numerals. During the fall season, room fourteen had one hundred per cent in Athletic Spirit. In the winter season, rooms thirteen and fourteen both had one hundred per cent.

The class so far has done very well in banking with rooms twelve, thirteen, and fourteen having a perfect record during the entire year.

FRESHMAN CLASS

The Freshman Class

*I*N September, 1929 Freshmen entered the class of 1933, and, almost used to the customs of the school, we were informed that they could return to school at one o'clock. At first this aroused much discussion which was only a lot of words, and gradually we became accustomed to the afternoon session.

In January, class elections were held with the following results:

President	Lucy Fowle
Vice-President	Royce Randlett
Secretary	William McGann
Treasurer	Hal Knowlton

Despite the fact that no Freshman could play on the varsity, practice was held in every line of athletics. Hockey and football teams were chosen with Helen Lee and Hal Knowlton respective captains. The boys' basketball team, captained also by Hal Knowlton, was the winner of the interclass competition; and the girls' team of Bruins, captained by Lucy Fowle, was the honorary Freshman team. This honor was decided by a tournament with the six Freshmen girls' teams competing.

We feel next year will be our second entry into the High School and we hope to become more a part of its activities.

To the Lower Classes

THE Seniors bid farewell to you. The time has come for the class of 1930 to leave Winchester High School.

The years to come will look to the members of the classes of '31, '32, and '33 to add their bit to the honor of our school.

In the future you will have much to remember. Maintain at all times the spirit of W. H. S. Support its activities. Give of your best. Good-bye and good luck!

JUNIOR-SENIOR CLASS PLAY

The Junior-Senior Class Play

THE annual play of the Junior-Senior classes of the High School was presented the evening of February 15, 1930. The play, "The Merchant Gentleman", which was written by one of the old masters, Moliere, was entirely different from anything the school has ever given before. Though it was difficult to cast a play of this sort with high school students, the performance was remarkable and the actors executed their parts unusually well.

The cast was as follows:

M. Jourdain, a Parisian Merchant	Frederick Sanborn
Mme. Jourdain, his wife	Marie Dresser
Lucille, his daughter	Priscilla Bodman
Dorimene, a Marquise	Ruth Dodge
Durante, a Count in love with Dorimene	Russell Davis
Cleonte, a suitor to Lucille	Earl Waters
Nicole, servant to M. Jourdain	Muriel Carr
Covielle, valet to Cleonte	Robert Lampee
A Music Master	Lawrence Keepers
A Dancing Master	Robert Davis
A Fencing Master	Andrew Skilling
A Master of Philosophy	William Miller
A Tailor	Vazken Baghdoyan
Apprentice to the Tailor	Henry McCormack
Two Lackeys	Richard Riley, Gabriel Vespucci
Turks	John Murphy, William Grady, Vazken Baghdoyan, Henry McCormack

The Class Play Committee, headed by Clifton McNeil, deserve much credit for the success of the play. A better committee could not have been asked for.

The school certainly owes a great deal to Miss Bailey for this excellent program. This year is the first time the Class Play has been under her supervision and she has proved herself more than worthy of the position. We feel that, not only the school, but everyone who saw the performance, appreciates the value of having as a member of our faculty one so skillful in the art of directing plays.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY

Dramatic Society

THE officers to represent the Dramatic Society for the school year of 1929-30 were:

Martha Tibbetts, President.

Lawrence Keepers, Vice-President.

Olive Boutillier, Secretary.

Marie Dresser, Treasurer.

Miss Marion Bailey, coach and adviser.

The first program produced by this society on December 6 was most unusual. It consisted of two one-act plays. The first was a play of the Croatian 'out-laws,' "The Last of the Lowries," by Paul Green. This was very melodramatic and entirely different from anything ever produced before by the society. The acting of Marie Dresser, as the mother of the Outlaw gang, and of Katherine Waldo as her daughter-in-law was exceptional. Good acting was also shown by Francis Felt and Ada Johnson.

The second play, "The Voice of the Snake," by Doris Holman was a very amusing comedy. Bradford Hill stole all the laughs in his character as a half-wit actor. Others in the cast were Helen Coombs, Earl Waters, Walter Abbott, and Robert Jackson.

George Bryne, Daniel West, George Philbrick, William Bernard, and William Abbott made two sets of scenery, one for each play. The costuming was taken care of by Barbara Pine and Olive Boutillier.

The annual play, presented before the Parent-Teachers' Association on May 16, proved very successful. It was a farce by William Dean Howells, entitled "Evening Dress." The leading roles were taken by Martha Tibbetts and Robert Lampee.

The Dramatic Society, at the end of the year, gave into the keeping of the school three hundred dollars.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Athletic Association

THE Athletic Association has had a very fine year in finances, school spirit, and social activities.

At the beginning of the school year, a few changes were made in the constitution, which lowered the price of membership dues, but increased the membership in the Winter and Spring seasons so that more money was taken in than ever before. More money was also taken in at the football games than previously—over three hundred dollars at one game—due to the new bleacher ruling and the zest of the ticket sellers. The boys' basketball team was almost self-supporting, so that at the beginning of the Spring Season there was a balance of nearly seven hundred dollars. Thanks to the home room representatives, who were more closely organized this year, a record was established in the winter when 92% of the school were members.

A cheer leader's squad was organized in September, which met weekly under the guidance of Mr. Butters. This squad had a representative at every athletic contest during the year, and in turn organized and trained a squad of Freshman cheer leaders for their rallies. Three rallies and one business meeting were held each season, and in the former the policy of having only student speakers was tried. The Publicity Committee, with Marjorie Hayden '30 as chairman, took charge of putting up posters and banners for the larger football games, made a bulletin board for the weekly events, and posted framed lists of those having the right to wear varsity and second team emblems.

The Social activities of the Association were well taken care of by Mary Armstrong '30 and her social committee. In the fall the first self-supported Fall Sports Dance was held. One hundred athletes sat down to the annual Fall Sports Banquet which was held in the gym with Mr. Eager serving admirably as toastmaster and Coach Rothacher of Springfield honoring us as head speaker. Movies and dancing were enjoyed after the speaking. A field day for all A. A. members was held in the Spring. In the evening of the same day the Association combined with the Dramatic Society to give a play and dance.

The cross country letter was made a major letter and a cheer leader's letter was designed. Ninety-three first team letters and forty-five second team letters were given out during the year. Class numerals were awarded to the classes of '31, '32, '33.

The officers for the year were:

President, William Allen, '30

Vice-President, Marie Dresser, '30

Secretary, Kenneth West, '31

Treasurer, Helen Bidwell, '30

THRIFT ASSOCIATION, 1930

Thrift Association

THE Thrift Association of Winchester High School has been organized for the past four years. During this time, it has worked effectively under the able guidance of its faculty adviser, Mrs. Stacy.

The school year, just closed, is the first year that has seen all four classes busily banking, when each Tuesday came around. We have, on several successive weeks, reached the 100% goal. Not once have we been below the 99% mark. Such a record is something of which we may well be proud. Much credit is due the home room representatives, teachers, and committees in charge of posters, bulletins, and campaigning for their faithful and co-operative work.

Although the Thrift Association works more quietly than some other organizations of our school, it has good reason to feel its importance. To instill the habit of thrift is worth our time and effort in manifesting interest and cooperation in our weekly banking.

The officers of this organization are:

Ruth Dodge, President.

Mabel Tompkins, Secretary.

Mrs. Stacy, Faculty Adviser.

RED CROSS STAFF, 1930

Summary of Red Cross for 1929-1930

THE Red Cross Council, composed of one representative from each home room, has carried on its program of service for others under the supervision of Miss Bronson. The representatives are: Dorothy Bidwell, Room 12; Virginia Farrar, Room 13; Janet Nichols, Room 14; Alma Talcott, Room 20; Irene Moulton, Room 22; Mary Stockwell, Room 23; Eileen Eason, Room 24; Mary Shea, Room, 25; Sally Roberts, Room 33. Officers for the year were: Janet Nichols, president, and Dorothy Bidwell, secretary.

Several meetings have been held throughout the year, at which projects for each month were planned. The project for October was the filling of thirty-five cretonne bags with useful little articles for soldiers in the regular army. On October 16, twenty girls volunteered to help and the work was completed in one afternoon.

At Thanksgiving, baskets were distributed among unfortunate people in Winchester. The school responded generously to the appeal for vegetables, fruits, and candies.

In March, seventy articles of clothing were collected for needy children in Winchester.

Writing up a history of Winchester was the April project. The work was placed in the hands of the following people:

Aram Mouradian	Photographs
Jean King	Sketches of Winchester
Mabel Tompkins	Waterfield-Winchester
Russell Tompkins	Government
Arthur Razee	Buildings of Interest
Lucy Fowle	Famous Women
Daniel West	Famous Men
Sally Roberts	Red Cross Chapter
William Abbott	High School
Betty Mead	Social Clubs
William Stalker	Industries
John Crosby	Population
Martha Boyden	Looking Into Future
Ruth Dresser	Individual Remarks About Town

The Red Cross intends to post a bulletin each week on every Home Room bulletin board.

The Junior Red Cross feel they have succeeded in living up to their motto, "Service to Others."

GLEE CLUB, 1930

The Girls' Glee Club

THE Girls' Glee Club rehearsals take place on Mondays at one o'clock. The members are from the three upper classes of the school. The girls sang a group of songs at the January meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, and presented an operetta, entitled: "The Sunbonnet Girl," on April 12, at the Wyman School Hall, before a large and appreciative audience. They will sing one or two groups of three-part songs at the graduation exercises.

The members of the club are:

Carolyn Abbott

ORCHESTRA, 1930

Winchester High School Orchestra

THE orchestra meets every Tuesday morning during the banking period, between eight and eight-forty, with Miss Knightly directing. There are seventeen members seven of whom are freshmen. The co-operation on the part of these first year students has been excellent, for they have been faithful to the rehearsals all the year. Their school day begins at one-fifteen o'clock, ordinarily. The orchestra has performed at all of the Parent-Teacher meetings; the Junior-Senior play and the Winchester Teachers' Club plays in February; the Girls' Glee Club Operetta in April; and will play for graduation.

The members are as follows:

Violins

Ruth Dodge
Betty Erickson
Doris Gardner
William Mahoney
Constance Purington
Viola Rennert
Katherine Sanford

TRAFFIC SQUAD 1930

Traffic Squad

ONE of our most active organizations is the well organized, well managed, and efficient traffic squad. Day in and day out, through the entire school year, this group of students, under the supervision of Mr. Butters and a staff of officers, is found on duty in the corridors. It is the squad's important task to direct the passing of classes, with the least possible confusion and delay.

The two-platoon system made it necessary to organize the Junior Traffic Squad made up entirely of freshmen. This group did not have the opportunity to observe the Senior Traffic Squad in action very long and had to "learn the ropes" by itself. The freshmen did their work very well.

Faculty Director—Mr. Butters

Chief—Clifton McNeill

Lieutenants—Harold McCue, James Haley

LUNCH ROOM STAFF

The Lunch Room

THE Winchester High School lunch hour, because of the limited capacity of the lunch room, is divided into two parts. The students in so far as it is possible, are evenly divided, practically half of the school attending each lunch.

The lunch room force, under the supervision of the Household Arts Teacher, Miss Nivin, who does the planning and studying of the food, is made up of four women, who prepare the food, nine girls, who serve it, and three boys, who make change for the students.

The aim is to serve a well-balanced meal at the lowest possible cost. As an example of a well-balanced meal, the menu includes a hot dish with some kind of vegetable, a salad, and always milk. Sometimes as a variation, two hot dishes instead of a salad are served. In that case, fruit in some form is usually the dessert. In preparing the lunch we strive to sell the foods most essential to our health, emphasizing the plain foods rather than the sweets. We charge just enough for the food to cover expenses and overhead, including the salaries of the four women, gas, laundry, and other incidental expenses. The twelve students who serve in the lunch room are given their lunches.

During the last few years, several changes have been made in connection with the lunch room management. This year we have eliminated the ticket system and food is paid for at the counter in cash, the exact amount of change being required.

Ice cream is now sold in brick form rather than in cones. This prevents waste, gives a fairer serving to the students, and can be handled more conveniently.

Some new machines have been installed recently, including an electric bread slicer and a potato ricer. Electric refrigeration has added much to the efficiency of our organization. Menu boards have also been purchased, and closets have been built.

The innovation of uniforms for the girls last Fall, created much amusement among the student body. Our memory is very vivid of the first day we wore them. We overheard several remarks about "Child's", "Waldorf", "Winchester Laundry", "Nurses' Home", and similar comments, causing not a little embarrassment among the girls. However, the uniforms add a great deal to the general appearance and attractiveness of the lunch counter.

We do a gross business of approximately ten thousand dollars yearly. For a school of our size this is an excellent record. Since the two-platoon system has been started, our business has decreased because of the loss of the trade of the greater part of the freshman class.

The success of the lunch counter depends upon the co-operation of the students and teachers with the lunch room force. We appreciate the co-operation we have received, and hope that in the future, under better conditions, we shall be able to increase the efficiency of the lunch room.

ATHLETICS

AT the beginning of the season, the outlook for the football team was not very promising. Coach Mansfield had to build his team with only four veterans available. Hard practice put the fellows in fine condition for the first game with Stoneham. We lost, but the coach got a good idea of the ability of his material. The following week, the team ran rings around Concord, but had to be content with a tie game.

Our first victory came as a result of our best played game at Arlington where the team showed great possibilities. The Belmont contest found the eleven in a slump and the result was a draw, no score recorded for either school. About this time the squad was hit hard by injuries and the game with Wakefield spelled defeat for the locals.

Next followed the two hardest games on our schedule with Melrose and Watertown. Both of our rivals were heavy favorites. By putting up two great games our boys held the opposing team to low scores. Maynard and Saugus found defeat at the hands of Winchester.

Finally, came the Woburn game on Thanksgiving Day! Although there was a flurry of snow before the contest a large crowd was on hand to witness the big game of the year. The rival elevens were set for the hard encounter which always takes place when the two schools face one another on the grid-iron. Winchester had the ball for three-fourths of the game, Woburn's play being entirely defensive. The local team had the pig-skin on their opponent's five-yard line several times, but the necessary punch was lacking. The result of the battle was a scoreless tie.

FOOTBALL TEAM, 1929

Coach Mansfield was aided during the season by Dana Kelley of Winchester and Harvard fame.

The team was captained by "Bart" Godfrey. The boys, under Bart's leadership, gave all they had in true W. H. S. fashion. Their opponents always knew they had been in a real gridiron battle.

The scores of the season were as follows:

Winchester	0; Stoneham	14	Winchester	0; Melrose	19
"	7; Concord	7	"	6; Watertown	21
"	13; Arlington	7	"	20; Maynard	6
"	0; Belmont	0	"	13; Saugus	6
"	0; Wakefield	7	"	0; Woburn	0

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM, 1930

CROSS-COUNTRY

IN September, the call for cross-country candidates was issued and about twenty boys reported. Half of the prospective long distance runners were freshmen. When the two-platoon system went into effect the first of October, the first year men were lost to the squad. The remaining ten boys continued undaunted and put in hard work by running two or three miles each day.

Our course is situated in the Fells, starting at the high school and extending to the causeway and back. It goes without saying that the athlete who plugs away at this course day after day is not a fellow looking for a soft snap. The successful season enjoyed by the cross-country team speaks well for the athletic prowess of Winchester's boys.

The team was made up as follows:

Henry McCormack, Captain
Robert Winchester
William Stalker
George McCormack
Clement Purcell
Kenneth West

The results were as follows (Lowest score wins):

Stonham 25; Winchester 30
Arlington 19; Winchester 37
Winchester 19; Somerville 37
" 23; Beverly 33
" 21; Concord 37
" 25; Braintree 31
" 22; Weymouth 37

Woburn lost to Winchester by default.

BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAM, 1930

AT the beginning of the Basketball season the outlook was not very bright. There were no veterans available. "Johnny" Murphy, "Bill" Robinson and "Here" Penn were the only players who had had any varsity experience. After the first few games John Murphy was elected captain. The varsity regulars were Dolan, Smith and Robinson, forwards; Murphy, center, and Ken West, George and Achilles Penn, guards. Of the four practice days each week two were held after five o'clock.

The team shaped up fairly well and was able to hold its own with the best of them. But lack of practice and the height of the players handicapped the team play greatly.

The second team composed only of under class boys was very successful and the prospects for next season are very promising.

Varsity letters were awarded to the following: Captain John Murphy, Captain-elect Wilmer Smith, Francis Dolan, William Robinson, Kenneth West, George Penn and Achilles Penn.

The second team members are: Captain Harold Donavan, Roger Newell, Ray Dean, Daniel West, and Carmino De Mimico.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM, 1930

BASKETBALL

THIS past year the Girls' Basketball Team had an extremely successful season in comparison with the results that had been expected. In spite of the fact that Captain Cutter was the only first team letter girl on the squad, the teams displayed the excellent type of basketball familiar to seasoned players.

The first game of the season was played with Belmont, and it served by its victory to encourage the team to face harder games. Our next contest was with Lexington, both teams were evenly matched, but Winchester in the last quarter proved more equal to the pace. Swampseott outelassed us in both speed and passwork, this defeat and likewise our loss in the game with Melrose showed us just what we needed practice in. After a week's hard work under the direction of Coach Centervall, our game picked up, and we again defeated Belmont. We next tackled Medford on our own floor, and had an easy victory over that team. The last two games of the season, although exciting, were disappointing in that we were again defeated by Melrose and Swampseott.

At the end of the season, Loretta Carleton, a three-letter athlete, was elected as 1931's Captain. Captain Cutter deserves much credit for her leadership of the team throughout this season.

The scores are:—

Belmont	10	Winchester	33	Belmont	17	Winchester	39
Lexington	19	Winchester	26	Medford	15	Winchester	24
Swampseott	39	Winchester	15	Melrose	24	Winchester	22
Melrose	28	Winchester	18	Arlington	38	Winchester	8
		Swampseott	48	Winchester	12

BASEBALL TEAM 1930

THE 1930 baseball season marked the return of Coach Mansfield as baseball coach. He was greeted by only four veterans, Captain Lee, O'Connell, Robinson and Dolan. However, there were many other promising candidates in Smith, Murphy, Mobbs, Ambrose, Daley, DeMinico, Procopio and R. O'Connell. Before the regular season opened a practice game was played with the Alumni and the High School won 5 to 4 in a ten-inning game. Winchester had two of the best pitchers in the league in Capt. Lee and Robinson.

TRACK TEAM 1930

UNDER the leadership of Kenneth West and the coaching of Mr. Wenner. Winchester had the most successful season on the track that it has had since the sport was organized three years ago.

Starting to train the last week of March the track men speedily got into good form and were ready to defeat Lexington on May 2nd by the score of $55\frac{1}{2}$ to $16\frac{1}{2}$. From then on they had an average of two meets every week right up to June 7th. They lost to Watertown, one of the best teams in Suburban Boston, 30 to 47, and to Melrose by one point. Six athletes went to the Harvard Interscholastics, where by means of Capt. West and "Sandy" Newell, they made 5 points, the most ever made by Winchester in the stadium. At the same time the rest of the team went to the Middlesex meet and took 4th place. They caused an upset by defeating Concord 43 to 33 and then they gained 18 points at the Mystic Valley League Meet, trailing Arlington, Watertown, and Melrose. When this goes to press they have still to meet Belmont and a few of the team are going to compete in the meet at Fitchburg. The outstanding man of the season was Roger Newell, who earned more than 50 points. The relay team composed of Capt. West, W. Brown, R. Dean, J. Morton, and R. Newell was defeated only once and won the cup offered to the relay winners at the Mystic Valley League Meet. Those getting letters are: Capt. Kenneth West, William Allen, William Brown, Raymond Dean, Edward Hitchborn, Henry McCormack, John Morton, Roger Newell, Frederick Yeo Manager.

GIRLS' TENNIS TEAM 1930

TENNIS

THE girls' tennis team this year has had a very successful season under the captaincy of Helen Bidwell. The High schools played were Concord, Lexington, Winthrop, Malden, Brookline, Arlington, Newton.

The eleven girls on the team were as follows:

Helen Bidwell, Capt.
Mary Cutter
Barbara Chidley
Madeline Little
Carolyn Abbott

Carolyn Mereer
Mary Armstrong
Mabel Tompkins
Loretta Carleton
Ruth Wadleigh

Martha Boyden

This year there were five varsity girls left from last year's team and next year, due to graduation four of the best players will be lost. However, there is material for another successful team next year.

GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY TEAM, 1930

WHILE we cannot record a league championship in field hockey this year, we can say our girls proved themselves champions in the true sense of the word. Any team that could start out as the one of 1929 did, with but four letter players, and play through a season of hard contests to such a successful ending can be considered nothing but a team of champions.

The field hockey season opened on October fourth when Winchester met Wellesley. In spite of a five to one victory for Winchester the game proved there was much work to be done before a championship could be won.

Then followed a number of hard fought games resulting in three victories with Arlington, Alumnae and Stoneham, and two ties with Brookline and Winthrop.

A defeat by Melrose was next and then a comeback was staged when Watertown was beaten by a nothing to one verdict.

The fortunes of the season resulted in a triple tie in the so-called Northern Division of the field hockey league. Winchester shared first place with her old rivals Melrose and Winthrop. It will be recalled that earlier in the season Winchester had played both these teams, losing to one and tying the other. Now for the play-off!

On November 25, playing on the Newton field, Winchester and Melrose battled for high honors. It was a real fight from the start to the finish. At the final whistle, our girls emerged victorious, two to one.

It was now necessary to meet Winthrop. What a hard fought game that proved to be! The championship of the Northern Division was at stake. By winning, two to nothing, Winchester clinched the honors.

In the meantime Lexington had reached the top in the Southern Division. This meant that Winchester and Lexington must clash sooner or later. And the clash came on a cold, snowy day. Only a team of real sports could have gone out on the field and played against such odds. Lexington scored one point and Winchester failed to score. The team gave of its best. More could not be asked of it. A real team played a real game in a real way.

The team's sterling captain, "Pug" Mercer, deserves special mention. She not only piloted the team through a most successful season, but attained for herself the coveted honor of being elected all-Boston goalie. Throughout the season, she showed unequalled spirit.

When the time came for the team of 1929 to choose the captain for the coming year, its choice proved to be Carolyn Nichols. Carolyn has played on the hockey team since her freshman year, being a regular on the 1928 championship team, and one of the very best players on this year's team. No girl could be better equipped to undertake the captaincy than Carolyn. All wish her luck. May she head a team of champions in the fall of 1930!

Rondeau upon the Motto of the Class of 1930

We finish to begin our life's pursuits,
Knowing that till now our planted roots,
Give way to firmer fastening in the years.
We, looking at the world with upturned spears,
Know of the start of life, and what it boots.

So when we look upon our forward routes,
And when we stretch our hands to pluck the fruits
Of righteous living, then our mem'ry bears:
We finish to begin.

When nature and Aeolian wind uproots
Our recent past, our former dear pursuits,
Then may we think of those wise ancient seers
Whose wisdom follows course throughout the years
And sings from limpid Enterpean flutes:
We finish to begin.

GEORGE HENRY LOVETT SMITH.

An Horatian Ode for the Class of 1930

Let Time his ever joyful numbers sing,
And steal upon the face of Jove, indeed;
Let months and years their joyful course partake;
And let the heathen Sun his courses speed;

Let man remember in his vain pursuits:
There is beginning and an end to life;
And though beginning may be start indeed,
The end is not the end, but start of strife.

So let it be to us in starting life.
These happy years that we have gladly spent,
Are now as gladly past; new worlds stretch out:
We start our life in lofty firmament.

When in these years the Fates do changes spin,
Let us remember that we finish to begin.

GEORGE HENRY LOVETT SMITH.

In The Long Run

you and your friends will prize the portrait that looks like you—your truest self, free from stage effects and little conceits.

It is in this “long run” photography that PURDY success has been won.

Portraiture by the camera that one cannot laugh at or cry over in later years.

For present pleasure and future pride protect your photographic self by having PURDY make the portraits.

BURDETT COLLEGE

Recommends that young people contemplating a business career finish first their high school course, later entering college or business school as their fitness or need may require.

Burdett College is interested in graduates of the Classical, Scientific, General, and Commercial Courses who are farsighted enough to see that a high school education supplemented by additional, more highly specialized training is the best preparation for a useful business career.

For young men Burdett College offers intensive two-year courses of college grade: Business Administration and Accounting—for young women, Executive Secretarial and Normal Commercial Courses. Also specialized Office Management, Bookkeeping, Stenographic and Finishing Courses for those wishing a business training in shorter time.

Distinctive features of Burdett College are: individual attention—able faculty—exceptional preparation—desirable student associates. Students attending come from universities, colleges, leading high schools and academies—sixteen men's colleges being represented in the Business Administration Course alone during the present school year.
